Here is an example - bullets are sub item:

Project 1

- Task List 1
 - Sub Task 1.1
 - Sub task 1.2
 - Sub tasks 1.3
- Task list 2
 - Sub Task 2.1
 - Sub task 2.2
 - Sub tasks 2.3
- Task list 3
 - Sub Task 3.1
 - Sub task 3.2
 - Sub tasks 3.3

At outset Task list 1 and 2 did not exist but were created as I worked with the project and thus task list one was renamed to task list 3 and instantly reverted back to Task List 1 after it was saved (marked as done on iPad app) - I repeated the process and it worked

Sub item 1.1 moved under Task list 3 and similar thing happened with task list 2 sub tasks.

Simply put it seemed to take sever goes on iPad to get the sub tasks to stick to the right lists.

I got back to my mac and had the exact same problem, I move a task to a different position in the list and it reverts but when moved for a second time it holds its position.

I just dont have the time to do everything twice!!

Thanks
Denis

Denis,

Please clarify exactly what you mean with they have moved to different places in the list - what list exactly? For example, do you click on a project, add a task there, hit enter to save it and then you see how this task automatically moves somewhere else? If so - where exactly does it move - to a different project?

Or are you changing the view in the process, for example - are you going to the "7 days" view, where tasks are not sorted by their position in a project, but by date, time and priority?

regards,
Peter
